Revo Uninstaller Free

This month we have a real winner for you. I've been experimenting with this utility before bringing it to your attention. Some uninstallers can be a real pain in the neck, in that they require that you allow them to monitor all software installations, which usually requires a pre & post installation scan of your system, a time waster considering the size of most hard drives. Windows native uninstaller does an ok job but all it really does is find the applications provided uninstaller; if it cant find it or if it fails you are stuck with another orphaned program. Who knows what it put into your system folder.

Revo uninstaller is different, it can uninstall a program without the need to monitor its installation. it works by scanning a hard drive and registry for files that would otherwise be left behind. It removes all the program's files, auto start entries and all noticeable registry entries. When you ask Revo to uninstall a program, it first looks for the products uninstall program and will run that program if it is found. Only if the search fails will it try to remove files and registry entries itself.
